

MAKIKI PARK TO INCLUDE THE WHOLE VALLEY

Within the next few days "Makiki Park" will come into being through a proclamation which will be issued by the governor. This is the reserve provided for by act of the last legislature, and the surveys and maps have just been completed in accordance therewith.

Governor Frear stated this morning that he will make the necessary proclamation as soon as copies for publication of the rather voluminous description of the new park can be made.

According to the map in the governor's office this morning, the new reserve has only eliminated three of the proposed homestead lots, laid out on the Waikiki side of the valley, and which it was commonly understood would all be absorbed by the proposed park.

Embraces Whole Valley.

Makiki Park will contain 560 acres. It is very irregular in its boundaries, but, generally speaking, embraces the entire valley, and the mountain slopes on all sides, clear up to the dividing ridges. On the Ewa side the line follows the slope of the hill, just under the ridge, in a generally straight line to the top of Tantalus. Here it swings toward Manoa Valley, taking the boundary of a row of lots on the Manoa ridge, sold by the government a few years ago. The line swings away around towards Sugar Loaf and then back on to the Waikiki slope of Makiki Valley, where it runs in a fairly straight line till it joins the head of Makiki street.

There is a good deal of private land within the boundaries of the park, principally land which was originally sold to W. R. Castle.

Governor Frear stated this morning that it will probably be but a short time until a later line will be laid from the upper Makiki reservoir, or springs, to supply the lots sold some time ago on the Ewa side of the valley. This line will then be carried by siphon across the valley for supplying the lots sold, and to be sold, on the slopes of Round Top.

The map in the governor's office shows the projected road from Makiki street, up Round Top and Sugar Loaf, and joining the present Tantalus road at the top. The governor stated that a gang of prisoners is at present working on the road, and that they will be kept at it until the loop is finished. The new road will be wide enough for automobiles, which the present Tantalus road is not.

BOTH PARTIES HERE FACE SERIOUS SPLIT; KUHIO INDEPENDENT

Among politicians the impression is gaining ground that Kuhio will not be a candidate again for delegate to Congress. In a way he has done a good deal to put himself out of the contest, for he has declared in interviews all the way from Honolulu to Washington that he would not accept the office again if Frear were renominated for governor, and he is still making the same declaration. Hence, if Frear is named by President Taft for another term, as now seems likely, Kuhio is not in a position to run, and the Republicans will be looking for another candidate.

Dowsett Might Run.

The name of J. M. Dowsett is again brought to the front in discussions of candidates for the Congressional position in the event of Kuhio quitting the game. There is more in the proposition of Kuhio quitting than merely his decision that he won't run if Frear remains governor, for his attitude is such that he couldn't get the nomination anyhow, say the leaders. The party cannot go into the campaign with the expected endorsement of the Frear administration and have Kuhio its candidate for Congress, and it is up against the proposition of the widest kind of a split if it tries to accept Kuhio as an anti-Frear man. Kuhio has burned his bridges behind him, and will have to either get Frear's scalp or quit.

May "Dump" Kuhio.

Kuhio expresses himself very freely

about his attitude. He hasn't gone into specifications as to just what the governor has done or neglected to do, but he insists that there is no satisfaction in being delegate with Frear governor, and that he won't play any more. Reports from Washington so far do not indicate that Frear is in any special danger of being turned down. There is a considerable element in the Republican party here which will be glad of the chance to "dump" Kuhio.

Democrats Also at Sea.

The story published in the Star last week of the Democratic party efforts to throw McCandless caused a lot of warm discussion among the party leaders, from which it appeared that the anti-Link wing is very strong, and that if the Republicans drop Kuhio both parties are likely to have new candidates at the head of their ticket next time. "Link" will have to drop his radical immigration views or the party will split worse than it did last time.

Kuhio an Independent.

"In that event," said a well-known Democrat this morning, "with both the Republican and Democratic parties split, watch out for Kuhio to run independent and go to Congress as head of his own party. The Home Rulers will endorse him. If the Republicans win for Frear and the Democratic organization is captured again by McCandless, that will be the situation in the next campaign, and it won't be easy to defeat the prince."

DEATH INTERRUPTS CONDEMNATION SUIT

As was predicted in jest, the sad event has happened, that of a death to interrupt the trial of the Fort de Russy condemnation suit.

David Noholoa, owner of the land wanted by the United States, died at Molokai two weeks ago. The news of his demise was not received in Honolulu until yesterday, when Mr. Olson of Holmes, Stanley & Olson, his counsel in the case, received a letter from Noholoa's wife stating the fact.

Mr. Olson announced the death of the principal defendant when court opened this morning, with the jury in attendance to receive instructions before considering its verdict. This informal suggestion of Noholoa's death raised the question as to whether the event did not abate the action.

Judge Clemens, after remarks by District Attorney Breckons, excused the jury until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, intimating that counsel might be called tomorrow to give their views upon the question.

When lately the trial was adjourned a day on account of a birth in a juror's family, after two similar adjournments out of respect to the marriages of as many jurors, a member of the panel remarked that a death might next be expected. Perhaps a sense of relief was felt by the twelve this morning on learning that the gruesome joke had proved a prophecy without making a vacancy in the jury box. The trial of the case began on the eighth of June.

THE ARMY PLANS AND WAIKIKI SANITATION

It is possible that Fort Ruger, back of Diamond Head, may follow the example of Fort de Russy, at Waikiki beach, and dump all the sewage from the big camp into the sea, to be carried to the ends of the earth, or to be tossed back to contaminate the bathing beaches upon which Honolulu depends for one of its greatest attractions.

Ex-Governor Carter, chairman of the Territorial Board of Sanitary Commissioners, is authority for the statement that such a proposition has been considered by the army people, and that the matter is now supposed to be in the hands of the War Department at Washington.

At the present time cesspools are taking care of the refuse at Fort Ruger, but for a community the size of this post, cesspools must necessarily be but a temporary expedient.

This is of course recognized by the army engineers, and a number of plans have been proposed, including the one first referred to, of carrying the sewage by gravity around back of Diamond Head and dumping it into the sea some place near the Ewa end of the Wai'alae beach. The septic tank is another suggested solution, which it is probable that Washington will be asked to pass upon.

Sea-Dumping Undesirable.

Governor Carter deprecates most strongly the turning of sewage into the sea. He states that it is held that it cannot be done safely unless the outlet be carried into water at least 100 feet deep, and the expense of doing this would, in most instances, make it prohibitive. The vagaries of ocean currents, Mr. Carter

KAUAI BELT ROAD PLANS READY WHEN THE MONEY COMES

A comprehensive plan for the completion of the Kauai belt road system was laid out by the Kauai Road Commission at its first business session held Friday and Saturday. Out of the $100,000 which the county will receive from the new loan fund, the board at its meeting decided to begin at once on work which it is estimated will aggregate $75,000. Superintendent of Public Works Marston, who is chairman of the board, returned early yesterday morning from attending the meeting.

The board met last Friday morning in Lihue, and after a short session, made an inspection trip as far as Wainiha and return. As a result of this trip the following work was decided upon:

Construction of new long span steel bridge over the Kealla river to replace the present wooden structure.

Construction of concrete bridge across the Kilauea stream.

Building of new steel bridge across Hanalei river to replace present structure, which is deemed to be in dangerous condition.

A new grade will be laid out, out of Hanalei Valley, which will be a great improvement over the present road.

On Saturday the board made a trip to Wainiha and return from Lihue, and has decided upon work in that section as follows:

To macadam road, with necessary regrading, from end of the Half Way bridge to connect with the present macadam.

Macadamizing and regrading from Koloa to the Short Cut road.

This will make a total of six miles of new macadam between Lihue and Wainiha, and will give this section a continuous macadamized road, probably the finest continuous stretch of road in the Territory.

Besides this work, a bridge will be constructed at Hanapepe, and a new bridge will replace what is known as the Half Way bridge.

J. S. Morange, county engineer, was appointed to the position of civil engineer of the board, and was instructed to proceed with the preparation of plans for all this work as rapidly as possible. It is expected to be able to begin actual construction immediately the funds become available.

NINETY WITNESSES BEFORE THE FEDERAL GRAND JURY TODAY

About ninety witnesses have been summoned to appear before the Federal grand jury, which began a new session today. They are from Honolulu, Hilo, Kahului and smaller places throughout the islands. Probably three-fourths of the number are Orientals.

That opium smuggling is one of the chief subjects of investigation is evident from association of names with cases of that kind heretofore tried, from a considerable representation of the "sport" element on the list and from the names of officers of the customs thereon.

DOES SHE VIOLATE LAW BY COMING WITHOUT WIRELESS?

The British steamer M. S. Dollar arrived from the Orient this morning. The arrival of this vessel has raised the question of whether she should be equipped with wireless or not, in accordance with the act that took effect on July 1, which stated that all vessels, of whatever nationality plying 200 miles out of a United States port, and carrying fifty persons on board, must have wireless.

Now the question has been raised whether this vessel comes within the scope of this act. She has eight officers, forty-one Chinese in the crew and three passengers, and she has come over two hundred miles.

But the authorities have not yet been able to satisfy themselves whether she should be fined for a breach of the act. She would certainly be prevented from carrying any passengers out of an American port, they say, but it is probable that the act could be interpreted to mean that having come here with fifty souls on board, and having come 200 miles, she is not infringing the act, if she does not carry passengers away. However, the question is being looked into, and if there is any fault to be found, the proper action will be taken.
